Tutoring Experience

Although I recently graduated, my tutoring journey began during my university years. I've mentored fellow students, ensuring they grasp both foundational and advanced IB Biology concepts. My fresh perspective on contemporary teaching techniques, including the use of digital platforms and interactive simulations, has made learning more engaging and effective for my students. My role as a teaching assistant during my final year further refined my pedagogical skills.

Tutoring Approach

My modern teaching approach emphasizes hands-on learning. I incorporate digital tools, videos, and interactive simulations to bring the complexities of biology to life. By creating a flexible and open environment, I encourage students to voice their curiosities and explore them together. My sessions aren't just about lessons; they're about fostering a lifelong love for biology.
